Alleluia Haitian Chants of Hope and Faith (Praise to Thee, O Lord, King of Eternal Glory) brings you my favorite songs from “Les Chants D’Espérance Français et Créoles Haitiens.” I know that many of these hymns are also your favorites. You have sent me mail, sought, and requested them at ChandesperansOnline.com and elsewhere. You have indicated that you want to continue praising God with these songs. We grew up with many of these songs. We sang them in our respective churches and schools. Haitian protestants and churchgoers or even the non-churchgoers continue to sing them to find comfort and reassurance in good times and in times of catastrophic natural crisis. I learned many of these songs during my time at Collège Évangélique de Maranatha et l’Église Baptiste de Bolosse where I respectfully attended regular school and church services. Back in those days, these songs helped me strengthen my faith and motivate my dedication to His service.

I suspect that you are going to peruse this list to find out whether your favorite chant is listed. If it is not on this list, feel free to jot us a note at chandesperansonline.com. Let us remain strong in the Lord and sing always to build our resilience and support each other!

Enjoy my list! Chantez avec moi! Chante avèk mwen! And let’s keep les Chants d’Espérance for our kids and grandkids! It is our collective heritage!
