Life is all about perspective. Seven people living in Queens, New York experience their own unique ups and downs. Through their experiences they come to learn two very important things: the road to happiness is never straight, and it's the detours that matter most. Meet the archetypes: Calvin the Alcoholic, Kenneth the playboy, Ebony the adulteress, Marissa the single mother, Kaliq and Zanay the odd couple, and Althea...oh, Althea. Their lives meander down the roads of life. They intertwine, they tangle, they fall apart and are stitched back together one painful stop at a time. It is said that the best way to understand someone is to see the world through their eyes, to walk a mile in their shoes. We go through life rarely realizing that beneath every cocky smile or confident exterior there is a person filled with flaws. Through failed relationships, broken promises, midlife crisis's, and life's unexpected mishaps, these individuals come to realize that what doesn't kill you may always try again, but that true courage comes from facing what many of them fear most: themselves.
